

The school of Djamballa

Akelius Foundation is realizing a school in the village of Djamballa in Mali.

In an area of two hectares will be build a three-classrooms school, housing modules for the teaching staff and an outdoor space for educational activities in support of teaching.

The construction site started at the beginning of January.

The works are progressing good and quickly. The foundations of the buildings have been prepared.

The on-site made brick are ready to be laid. The reinforcing elements were installed. Soon the perimetral walls will be build.
