

A handbook for the Akelius digital platform for learning foreign languages was presented to students

Bihać, 2024-10-30

At the Faculty of Pedagogy of the University of Bihać, the manual for the Akelius digital platform for learning foreign languages was presented to students today.

It is part of a project that has been implemented in USK for three years by UNICEF BiH in cooperation with the cantonal Ministry of Education.

The goal is to modernize the teaching process, which should keep pace with the progress of technology.

Three professors from the Faculty of Pedagogy of the University of Bihać participated in the creation of the manual for the Akelius digital platform for learning foreign languages, while the fourth author was from the Ministry of Education of the USK.

Akelius is a tool that follows the new curriculum, it was pointed out.

Children at school are happy to acquire knowledge and new material through the Akelius application, in the teamwork and the individual work, using different learn and research methods.

In acquiring and learning a new foreign language, the Akelius platform helps children bring new knowledge closer to them through songs, games and methodical exercises.

Thanks to the manual, the students of the Faculty of Pedagogy, i.e. future teachers, will be familiar with the Akelius digital platform in time, which surely raises the learning of English and German to a higher level.

To read from original source, click here.